LOCAL BREVITIES.

The dry weather still continues.

The finest Fresh Oysters at Bonanza.

This is exceptional courtweek weather.

Corn is selling at twenty-five cents a bushel.

The "Bard of the Bonanza" gets it in the neck this week.

The burg district begins to show its ugly winter nakedness.

Uncle Frank Sweeney isn't the only person praying for water.

Good, solid ice was formed in the still places Monday night.

It's an early job taking the Accommodation these mornings.

The bicycle riders are not so numerous as in the summer days.

The railroad damage crop is getting to be a thriving industry in this section.

A rain of very moderate proportions broke the monotony of the drouth last night.

Please read the church notice, all who are interested in the Presbyterian church.

Clarkson & Kinch want Oak and Pine logs at their mill in Arcadia. See advertisement.

Probate Court commences Monday, November 11th. The docket is published in this issue.

Brother Oliver and Treasurer Whitworth regaling on possum and sweet potatoes last Sunday.

If it doesn't snow within the next twenty-four hours it will have thrown away an excellent opportunity.

Lopez's new delivery wagon is a hummer, and the driver thereof is probably the proudest boy in the Valley.

Circuit court attracts the usual number of visitors, most of whom are domiciled at the Keeling House and the Blue Store.

All the members of Iron Lodge, No. 107, I. O. O. F., are urgently requested to attend the regular meeting next Monday evening.

What's the matter of Fitz and Corbett fighting it out on the burnt district? It won't take fifteen minutes to stretch the rope around the lots.

We have $100 that says we can sell cheaper and still make a profit than any other store in southeast Missouri.

BONANZA.

Star of the West Lodge, No. 133, A. F. & A. M., will hold its regular monthly meeting Saturday evening of this week. All Craftsmen are cordially invited to attend.

The case of State vs. Sutton on the charge of assault with intent to kill committed on J. Kinch at Annapolis last summer has been set for trial next Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

Among the visitors during the present term of court is J. S. Jordan of Corning, Ark. Mr. Jordan's many friends in Iron county will be glad to learn that he is prospering in his southern home.

The three youths who burglarized the Bonanza yesterday were taken before the Judge and pleaded guilty to the indictment that had been found against them the day before. Judge Green reserved sentence.

The sale of the household goods of the Oliver Hotel took place in Bishop's warehouse Tuesday and Wednesday. The attendance was good and, all things considered, the articles sold brought a very fair price.

Junge Emerson last week brought some samples of fruit which prove that plectriculture is not the only art of which he is master. The samples are perfect specimens of the apple as she is grown under favorable conditions on Missouri soil.

According to the St. Louis Chronicle, a company of men from Michigan have purchased six thousand acres of land in this county and will "lay out and build a town." The exact location is not named, but we greatly fear it is mostly in the writer's mind.

The grand jury found an indictment against the dackey who has been in jail some months charged with breaking into Roehry's saloon. His trial is set for Friday, and he being without money or friends, the court has appointed B. Fox to defend him.

The following attorneys have been in attendance on court this week. L. F. Dinning, De Soto; M. R. Smith, Farmington; C. D. Yancy, R. C. Durham; J. C. Carly and J. H. Roney, Piedmont; D. C. Bugg, Greenville; Hyatt and Lentz, Poplar Bluff.

The case of Henry Vandoren against the railroad was tried in the circuit court Tuesday and a verdict rendered for plaintiff for $35. Vandoren owns a farm near Hogan and claimed his crop had been damaged by reason of the railroad not maintaining a fence.

Until further notice, Rev. Edward Koeth, pastor, will hold services at the Ironton M. E. Church as follows: On the second and fourth Sundays of each month at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7 p. m. All are cordially invited to attend.

Uncle Frank Sweeney says the earthquake shook a good lot of water into the well he is digging, and he wouldn't mind another jar or so.

Six divorce cases grace the docket of the Iron Circuit Court this term. The growth in number of these cases of late years is remarkable, and would seem to furnish a rather unedifying answer to the question, "Is marriage a failure?"

Services for the Presbyterian Church, Ironton and Graniteville: Morning services: subject—"The tender Shepherd and the food he provides." Graniteville, 3 p. m. "The basis of hope of eternal life." Evening, at Ironton: "A lesson from the history of Egypt." GEO. H. DUTY, Pastor.

Among the arrivals in Ironton this week are: T. P. Fitz, C. H. Lucy and J. P. Seal, Des Arc; Chas. Maschmeyer, De Soto; B. F. Cross, Centreville; Bert Gregory and Hon. J. B. Holloman, Hogan; Giles McMahon, Clones; S. C. Bond and S. E. Buford, Bellevue; Thos. Maguire, Bismarck.

Yesterday morning at seven o'clock the thermometer marked four degrees below the freezing point. Overcoats ceased to be a luxury, and the smell of the newly-blackened stove was in the air. All indications point to a long and severe winter; but there's no telling. The butt end of the cold weather may be toward us.

Tuesday night, about eight o'clock, the dwelling occupied by W. C. Perkins took fire from a burning flue, but fortunately there was plenty of help hand, and the flames were quickly extinguished. This is a good time to call on the services of the chimney-sweep—in fact, it may be said to be the most sootable season of the year.

It will be remembered that B. Burks of Des Arc was convicted at the last term of our circuit court for selling liquor to minors, and fined $40 and costs. On his plea of impotency the Judge gave him three months in which to pay the fine and costs. The time expired about three weeks ago, when Mr. B. came up and honestly surrendered himself to the sheriff and is now boarding out the amount at $1.50 a day.

A terrible accident occurred on the Missouri Pacific Railway near King's Highway Tuesday night. Two accommodation trains, bound east and west, respectively, collided with great force, wrecking both engines and ditching the cars they were pulling. Four men were killed and perhaps twenty others injured. A misplaced switch was the cause; whether the fault of the switchman, or that it was purposely misplaced by some malicious miscreant, is not known. The switchman insists that the latter is the case, and vehemently denies that the accident resulted through criminal carelessness on his part.

Judge Green arrived on the south-bound train Monday noon and circuit court was commenced shortly after two o'clock. The charge was delivered to the grand jury, R. J. Hill of Bellevue being appointed foreman. In delivering the charge, the Judge instructed the grand jury that in investigating the case of murder against C. B. Hill for the killing of J. B. Walker, they should call on Mr. J. C. Carly for any legal advice as he had been appointed Special Prosecuting Attorney for that case. Mr. Edgar declining to serve because of his being of counsel for Hill in other cases. As soon as the grand jury retired the clearing of the docket began.

The citizens of this Valley were awakened at 5:10 this morning by the heaviest earthquake shock we have experienced in forty years' residence here. First, there came from the north a roar as of a distant storm or of an approaching train, which continued for a few seconds, followed by an abrupt jar. The shaking succeeded the first shock lasted fully thirty seconds, and gave one some very unpleasant sensations. The windows rattled, crockery clashed, hanging objects dangled to and fro, and the very houses seemed insecure on their foundations. The quake appeared to come from the northwest, rolling tumultuously away from us. We greatly fear that serious damage was done in the region central to the disturbance.

Mr. Thompson from Bellevue had a runaway his team started down street while he was out of the wagon, and ran at great speed to the courthouse square, thence west along Russell street; thence north and east again to main street, where it was brought to a sudden halt on the south side of the Oliver House by the axle of the wagon straddling a tree. By this time Mr. Thompson had arrived on the scene and he caught the team which had been broken loose from the wagon by its violent concussion with the tree. The vehicle was in a demoralized condition, but the horses were not seriously injured. In their career they nearly ran over a carriage driven by a lady, but fortunately she escaped with only a scare.

The citizens of this town have now under consideration a proposition from M. Lowenstein of St. Louis to establish a woolen factory in the A. V. M. Co. building, near the depot. Mr. L. says he will put in about $20,000 worth of machinery and establish a business giving employment to one hundred operatives. If the citizens of Ironton will give him a bonus of $2,000. The business will not only be of the manufacture of cloth, but will carry with it a tailoring outfit. We would like very much to have such an industry established here, and have no doubt that if our people become convinced of its practicability—that is, its permanent and prosperous establishment—there will be no trouble in getting them to put up the amount asked for. But of course they will first want to be assured that their good money is not to be put into an enterprise of doubtful success.

It is the purpose of the editor to see the Atlanta Exposition D. V., ere it has run its course. He remembers the days when the approach to the city was not so easy as it is now, and how pleasant as he hoped to find them this time. She deserves one. No city of twice the size ever gave the world half so great an exhibition of the progress of the time. The achievement is greatest of all when it is remembered that thirty years ago Atlanta was in ashes. Indeed almost the whole State was in ashes. It was like the new birth of a State a people starting out without worldly goods to make life anew. They had to reconstruct industry, organize labor, remodel jurisprudence and reconstruct transportation. All this done and exposed in such grand epitome at the end of thirty years! History furnishes no parallel to this recuperation, and Atlanta, the great heart of the great South, stands out, the organized personification of a moral greatness which has surmounted the wreck of time and the desolation of war.

The pork crop in this section is going to be very limited this winter, and no doubt will command a good price. We do not remember a time when the country was so scarce of porkers. This is especially to be regretted since there is a great abundance of feed for them. The corn crop is away beyond the average, and the woods are full of mast. In the matter of corn we are more blessed than some of our neighbors. The Charleston Democrat says that it is informed that "the reports heretofore made from four counties of this section regarding the yield of corn are erroneous. While it had been thought that the yield would far exceed that of last year, it appears that in the counties of Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid and Stoddard the crop will prove to be short about 20 per cent. It is these exaggerated reports that are responsible for the present low price of corn, and by the time the farmers have all got of their crops it will be found that this exaggeration prevailed pretty much all over the country, and prices will necessarily rise."

Under the heading, "The Beauties of a Well Lighted Town," a friend hands us the following as his personal experience: "A gentleman from one of our adjacent counties got off a late train at Ironton recently. After the train had passed he gaped his way up to what he thought was the side walk. His idea was to find a hotel immediately, so he kept going until he brought up at the door of the colored school house. After knocking at the door several times, and meeting with no response, from the landlord, he left, muttering to himself 'Well, if Ironton hasn't the d—st and sleepest hotel keepers I ever met!' His next effort was at the door of Freeman Martin's livery stable. 'Well, by the outlines this looks like a much larger hotel, but why in the world do they keep a light?' After rapping away for about ten minutes, the 'old gray' in the stable set up a roar. 'Well, by thunder! after a man has stood and knocked here for ten minutes, the old drunken landlord comes him for waking him up!' The last heard of the traveler he was feeling his way down main street, looking for a light and a landlord."

The trial of the case of Jay Ray vs. the city of Poplar Bluff for damages was commenced in the circuit court Wednesday afternoon. On the evening of January 11th last plaintiff's wife and child were drowned in Black river. At that time a number of men were employed putting in a system of water works for the city. To facilitate their labors a portion of the bridge across the river had been removed, leaving an opening. The plaintiff alleges that the night was a dark one and that while crossing the bridge Mrs. Ray, with an infant child in her arms, fell through the opening into the waters and both were drowned, the bodies not being recovered until two days later. Plaintiff places his damages at $10,000 and asks for judgment accordingly. The defense in answer denies all of plaintiff's material allegations and states that the opening made in the bridge were not of a sufficient size for a person to have fallen through; defense expects to prove that the husband and wife did not live happily together, and that the facts indicate very clearly that the deceased had jumped into the water to end an unhappy life. There is quite an array of legal talent on both sides, and the case will be hotly contested. The trial will probably consume a day or more, as there are a great many witnesses.

Arcadia News.

Elli Klotz, of Piedmont was in our town Saturday.

C. C. Yates was in town lately on business.

Mrs. Pike, of St. Louis, was down last week.

Mr. Willson and wife have purchased the Quinn property and are now moving in.

Mrs. Muse of Harviell is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Mangold.

Mr. Young has purchased a new horse. She is a beauty and as gentle as a kitten—so he says.

Mr. Rookwell of Williamsville visited relatives in this city last week.

Mrs. Marple, of St. Louis, spent Sunday at the Arcadia House with her husband, Conductor Marple.

John Young of Piedmont spent several days with his sister, Mrs. Hatten.

John Wyatt has sold his interest in the blacksmith shop to Sam Rayburn.

Carl Benson of Annapolis has bought H. N. Baird's interest in the store and will take charge at once.

Sam Rayburn has sold his property to Mrs. Mathews and will move into the Austin house.

Father Berryman and wife made Arcadia friends a short visit. Every one was glad to see this worthy couple, and only sorry they could not stay longer.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Margarette, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wamsley Wednesday evening. A very fitting funeral was preached by Bro. Aspley Friday afternoon, and the remains were followed to the Masonic Cemetery by many sympathizing friends. May God bless and comfort the bereaved parents!

JEROME.

Editor J. L. Montgomery, of Marshall, (Ill.) Democrat, states that for many years, he suffered untold agony from Dyspepsia. At last he began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and by the time he used six bottles, he was well as ever. Cures others, will cure you.

Job-work of all kinds at this office.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to return thanks to our neighbors and to express our appreciation of their many acts of kindness to us in the hours of our affliction. May God bless them, one and all! is the prayer of
Mr. and Mrs. T. M. WANSLEY.
Arcadia, Oct. 26, 1895.

From Des Arc.

Dry is no name for this weather. Farmers cannot sow wheat, but they are having a fine time for gathering corn.

The Seventh-Day folks are increasing; more came to-day. Pete Homan, our wagon-maker, was sitting in the tent one night last week with his ears and mouth wide open and swallowing every fly that perchanced to come along. He was so completely carried away with the new doctrine that some mischievous boy who was sitting behind him tied him fast to the benches, and he did not find it out until church was over and he had to be untied. He did not say much but no doubt thought "d—!" I am sorry to say they are having some bad behavior in the tent, and the preacher ought to get after them. One girl was heard to cuss her fellow for not doing right. Cutting in church is risky business, if the boys only knew it.

Rev. J. Harris of the Christian Order preached a fine sermon in the Baptist church to-day.

Dr. Raney and wife, parents of Hon. John H. and F. R. Raney, are back on a visit to their children. The Dr. lived a long time near Des Arc, and has a host of old friends and neighbors to welcome him back to his old home once more, and perhaps the last time we will ever see them again on this earth, as he is now 74 and getting very feeble. They left here Saturday for Hon. J. H. Raney's farm, where they will be well cared for. He has just finished and furnished an elegant residence. I understand he is offering his fine stock farm for $5000. He has just bought a large bill of lumber from T. P. Fitz to build a granary and carriage house and to finish a fish pond now under way.

Wm. Hay attended church to-day from Bruno; also, Doc. Farr, Mr. Lucy, etc.

Most of town will attend court this week.

Our school is moving along fine; full attendance. ISAAC.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best Cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at Crisp's Drug Store. Regular size 50c, and $1.00.

Annapolis News.

Ed. Register—Early this morning Jas. West and your scribe started for Black River, and as there is no railroad over that way, and we wanted an unrestricted view of the surrounding hills, with their ever-changing tints of colored autumn leaves, and as our horse had gone lame and we had a wealth of vim, vigor and leg muscle, we went afoot.

We left the railroad depot at 6:30 a. m., and at 8:10 we arrived at the Champion Springs Saw Mill.

The mill is operated by the young and energetic firm of Slusher & Lewis. Everything about the mill showed energy and enterprise. The grounds (log and lumber yards) were in the best order of any country saw mill it has ever been our lot to see. Here we met Monroe Slusher of the firm of Slusher and Lewis, who hitched up a team of fat, sleek mules to a light spring wagon, and heading toward the river we once more took up the line of march to the river and several miles up this winding, beautiful stream, crossing first to one side and the other, as the stream wound from side to side of the little valley that is here shut in between gigantic cliffs of limestone. One who loves mountain scenery, the paintings of nature, could not help feeling the inspiration of the artist while gazing upon those blue walls of stone, on top of which a stunted pine, the only tree that grows above all the varying colors of autumn, interspersed with cedar and pine enough to add to the beauty of the scene. One could bless the Creator for the sense of sight. Our object was to look at a small section of old Reynolds, and when we had accomplished that object we returned to Champion Springs, where Mrs. S. had prepared a beautiful repast to which we did ample justice. The meal over, we revisited the mill and then went down on Marlow Bay to see a cave and the high bluff that overhangs the bay. The scenery was grand, and we only wished for more time that we might enjoy it to our hearts' content, but as time was limited we were forced to return to the mill and thence to the city of Annapolis, where we arrived without further incident or accident.

Rumor says the whatisit is coming this way from Vulcan.

Mr. Copley has returned and taken his place as night operator at this place.

Mr. Fletcher returned to his home in St. Louis.

Mr. Lence returned last night.

J. S. Jordan was in town yesterday.

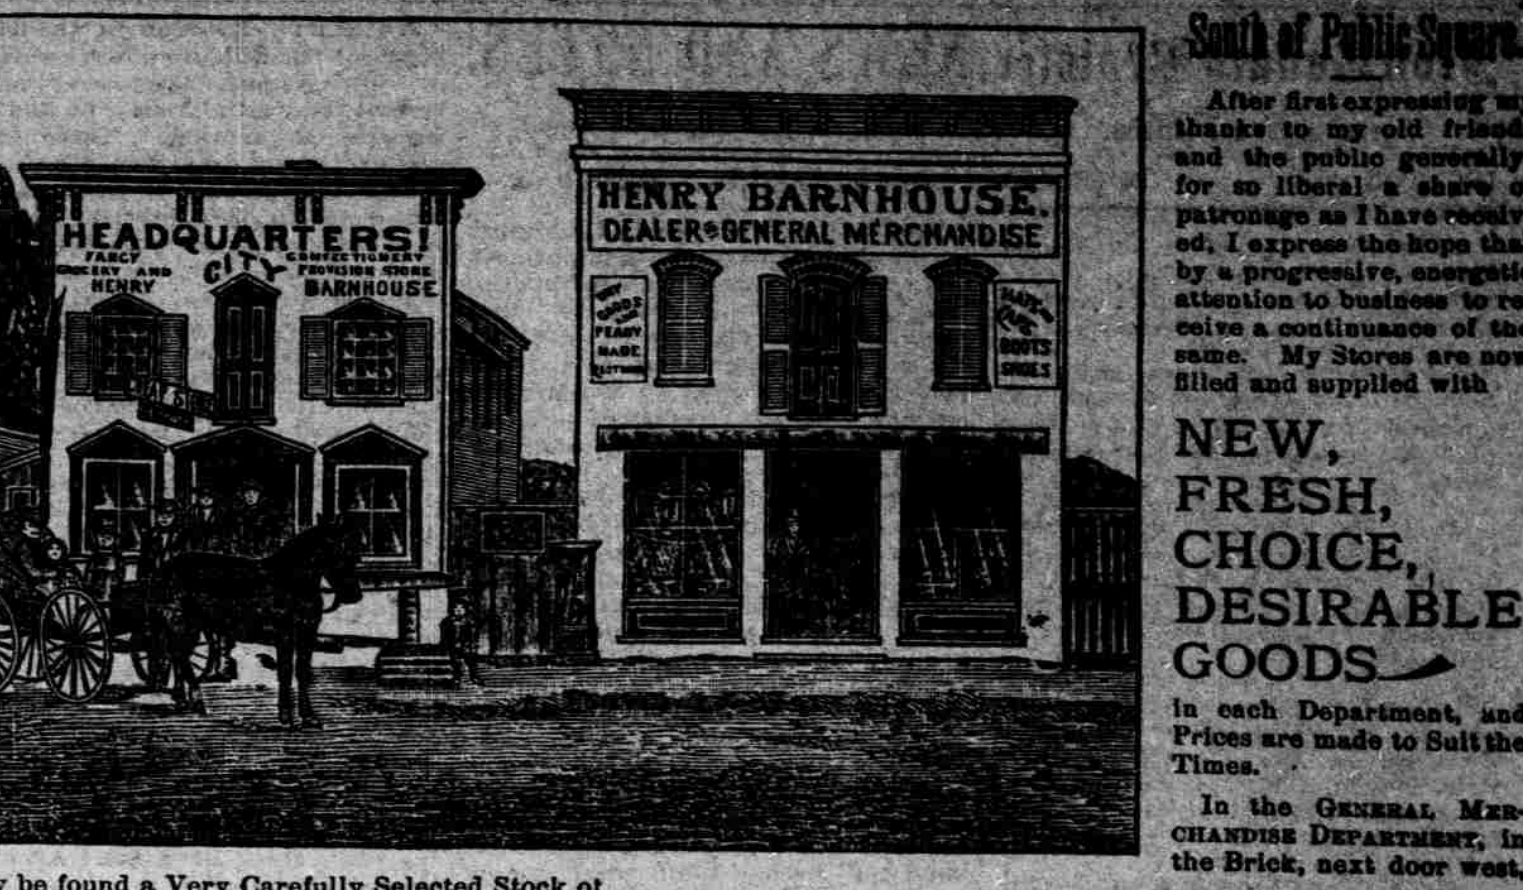

Oct. 27, 1895.

"While down in the southwestern part of the state some time ago, says Mr. W. Chalmers, editor of the Chicago (Cal.) Enterprise, 'I had an attack of dyspepsia. Having heard of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I bought a bottle. A couple of doses of it completely cured me. Now I am a champion of that remedy for all stomach and bowel complaints.' For sale by all dealers."

IRONTON, Mo. HENRY BARNHOUSE.

Since My Daddy's Learned To Eat.

Mr. Ake, I read the REGISTER, I read it through and through. I have read some things poetical, And some quite prosy, too. Last week, I read a few lines, (That poor man should write a book); Telling how he has dyspepsia, Since his daughter's learned to cook. Then he tells you of the French names That are given to his food; How the old names all have vanished, Before he goes to bed? But, does he tell you of the menu, Set before him "up in town?" When he gets to the hotel there, How the waiters "do him brown?" Does he think about his stomach, When he orders lobster a la grill, Crab salad, and hot buckwheat cakes, And everything on the bill? Does he tell you how he eats at night, Before he goes to bed? When he gets up in the morning, It's both his stomach and his head. And then when he comes home again, He has "that forlorn look," And blames it on his daughter, Since she has learned to cook.

MORAL.

Hear both sides of a story before judging either. A. M. B.

From Tolu.

Ed. Register—But few news items can consistently be gathered at present, although it had been some time since there has been a report from this vicinity. The farmer's corn wagon can now be heard early and late; their cribs too are filling up. R. Bays leads in this line; he is almost through gathering. Molasses is already made; plenty of it for sale. A protracted meeting has continued the past and present week, at Goodwater. It's a mixture of Campbellites, Baptists and some good old cider. Quite a discussion arose between two of the ministers during services last Sunday. If one can't get religion unless there is a preacher present, the preacher's reward in Heaven will surely be great. Rev. Mayberry advances this idea. Mr. R. Midyett, who was recently married, M. M. Edgar, is now living at his father's home. He's cutting logs and preparing to build. Best wishes to them. W. I. and Sol. Bays recently purchased some sheep from Wes. Hedrick. Sol. bought two pet sheep—one goes with goes with the hogs, and the other follows the children to school. The waters are now much lower than ever known before; springs are now dry that were never known to fail before. Now the hunter's season commences. His horn and the yelp of his hound can be heard to the south. W. I. Bays, clothing salesman for Thomas Bolick, left for Steelville Monday. J. M. Lucas and James Payne traded mules last week. W. I. King has sold his lot to J. M. Lucas, who is going to move to the mill this winter. Levi Dotson's farm is for sale. East-Enders, scare your panthers, bear and other bugaboos just west of the fifth principal meridian. They'll just increase those hunters' fun. They'll hunt until the last. TAFY.
